To maintain consistency in test scoring, a statistical process called scaling is used. Scaling converts all scores to a scale from 0-100. Passing score is a 70. If you earn between 0-69 you've failed. If your score is 70-100 you have passed.

Weighting Process for Exam Task

A group of practitioners and subject matter experts (SMEs) met and determined the weight of each task area compared to all other task areas in exams. The final weight assigned to each task determines its number of questions on the exam from each task area.

Value of Each Exam Question

All exam questions are worth the same weight regardless of their length. Candidates receive one point for a correct answer and zero points for an incorrect answer. Sample questions are not used to determine scores. Candidates are advised to choose an answer for every exam questions, even if they are unsure of the correct answer.

What if I fail?

If you enrolled via one of our board certification programs your exam and first proctor session are included in the cost of the tuition.

If you fail your exam, you will need to purchase a new exam license. You will also have to purchase a new proctor session.

Types of Questions In the Exams

All of the questions used on the Exam are of the true/false or multiple-choice type, with multiple options per question (labeled A, B, C and D for example), only one of which is correct. There are, however, several variations of this type of question appearing on the exam. The most commonly used formats are:

Closed-Stem Item: In this type of question, the examinee is asked a question and given four possible answers from which to choose.

Example:

Which of the following is a type of social network?

- (A) Google
- (B) Facebook
- (C) Bing
- (D) Yahoo

Answer: B

Sentence Completion Item: This question is characterized by an incomplete sentence, followed by options that represent conclusions to that sentence.

Example:

The _____ provides guidelines for managing a forensic lab.

- (A) McAfee Institute
- (B) The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI)
- (C) American Society of Crime Laboratory Directors (ASCLD)
- (D) National Lab Society

Answer: C

EXCEPT Format: In this type of question, an examinee is required to recognize that there are three correct responses within the question. The respondent does this by identifying the incorrect option. A variation on this type of question is to use the word NOT instead of EXCEPT in the stem, in the form of, "Which one of the following is NOT..."

Example The steps in the evidence include all of the following EXCEPT

- (A) Collection and identification
- (B) Storage and Retrieval for Court
- (C) Presented in court
- (D) Selling at the auction

Answer: D

True/False: This question is answered by picking out if the question is true or false.

Example:

Social Media can be used to obtain evidence to support criminal activity.

- (A) True
- (B) False

Answer: A

CECI Reinstatement (Grace Period)

You are permitted a one-year grace period that takes place if you allow your designation to lapse. During this timeframe, you no longer hold the certification and cannot use the designation (this includes but is not limited to business cards and LinkedIn profiles).

Your name will not appear in the verification section of the ISM website. Keep in mind that dates will appear on the certificate as if your recertification had been completed prior to the expiration of your previous certificate. At any time during your grace period, a recertification application can be submitted containing the required 30 CPE's for the previous period. Applications must be postmarked on or before the one year anniversary of your expiration date. Once the grace period has lapsed, the only way to reinstate your designation is to purchase, retake and pass the exam and submit a new original exam application.

Please notify M.I. of any address or job changes so we have the most current contact information for you. We send out periodic email notifications to individuals when their designation is up for renewal and we would like you to be able to receive these.
